

2010 Cub Scout and Webelos Adventure Camp

Cub Scout Adventure Camp is an opportunity for a Cub Scout and a parent to spend some special one on one time together in the great outdoors. This family pair will travel the trails of Cary Camp together enjoying the activities and adventures waiting for them. Our staff is here to see that your son has the time of his life and that you both will remember this experience for many years to come.

Webelos Adventure camp is a little more challenging and is aimed at giving a little more independence to the Scouts. Webelos can attend Adventure Camp with his den, Pack or a parent. We have added a little more challenge to the activities to keep them growing in skills and confidence. A favorite challenge for the Webelos is Mt. Puff, our 18 foot inflatable climbing tower.

Both Cub Scout and Webelos will be both entertained as well as have a chance to entertain at Adventure Camp. The theme for the 2010 Adventure camp is "Baden-Powell's Excellent Adventure" and this theme will flow through the program during all aspects of camp. Prepare to take a rocking look at Scouting's Heritage and participate in activities that drew boys to Scouting in the past.

Payments for Camping programs are not refundable due to the fact that camp has planned, purchased, and hired staff in accordance with your attendance. To maintain financial responsibility to the members and financial supporters of the Boy Scouts of America, we cannot return funds that have already been spent in preparation for your Scout to attend camp.

Although camp fees cannot be refunded, a Scout may find another Scout to take his place at camp. That Scout may take advantage of the fees the first boy has already paid. Thus, camp fees may be transferred to a new Scout who registers for camp, but they may not be transferred to a Scout who has already registered and made payments for camp.
